BIO

Late night ferries and metro cards have taken Jordan Barone, Jaybee, beyond the New York City borders - and to the Red Planet. As one of the city's youngest and leading audio engineers, his borough, Staten Island, has been patiently waiting for him to set foot in new territory. It is no coincidence the trifecta of events to occur in 2016; his graduation from SAE-NY, his venture into entrepreneurship as the Chief Operating Officer (C.O.O.) and Co-Founder of Red Planet Records, LLC, and his highly anticipated introduction to the world as the artist, Jaybee.

Jordan Barone is a decorated pianist, composer, and producer, accumulating an impressive list of accolades in his short time as an NYC student. As an audio engineer, he has spent his time in the trenches of the NYC recording studio circuit, earning credits to his 10,000 hours as an intern at Premier Studios and Blast Off Productions in Times Square. Although Jordan assembled a lavish stockpile of knowledge from some of the industry's top engineers, he sought official validation when he enrolled in SAE-NY in October 2014, the leading authority on music industry and technology education. While a student, in August 2015, he was selected to participate in the prestigious Mix With the Masters seminar and workshops in Avignon, France with the legendary engineer, Young Guru. Following this honor, he was given the opportunity to work for Young Guru's Era of the Engineer, and currently serves as the Community Relations Manager.

While humbled by recognition from industry peers, Jordan feels it is time to gross respect with his upcoming endeavors. Red Planet Records, LLC was formed in 2014 with his older brother, Stefan Barone, an NYC Hip-Hop artist and music industry professional. Together, they constructed Red Planet Studios a physical testament to their proficiency in sound, and the science] behind it. Red Planet Studios will serve as the command center for the independent label and publishing house, where passion projects will be created, and the brothers will use their expertise to help artists reach their audience. With astute competence in songwriting, production, composition, engineering, entertainment law, and marketing, Red Planet Records, LLC is ready to serve today's up-and-coming creatives-and they are open for business!

Although his stamp on the world has made cameo appearances through production and engineering, Jaybee is also ready to have his voice heard. With a solo project slated to commence production in May 2016, his most recent works have been christened as a cross of Billy Joel meets Kanye West. Rooted in Hip-Hop, his following project will draw on inspiration from the likes of Quincy Jones and Mark Ronson, curating and producing a wide array of artists from his circle. His third release will serve as the culmination of talents that forged the Red Planet, showcasing the independent label's signed artists on one collaborative project. With graduation celebrations underway, the gear patched in, hands on the keys, and three projects to come - 2016 looks to be an exhilarant and rewarding year for Jordan Barone.
